PENTAFOOD® PP FILM WITH HIGH-HEAT RESISTANCE NOW AVAILABLE FROM KLÖCKNER PENTAPLAST

Gordonsville, Virginia – November 9, 2008 – The Pentafood® film product line has been extended to include Pentafood® W-5129 rigid PP film. With a heat deflection temperature of 275°F (135°C), Pentafood® W-5129 film is engineered to offer the highest heat resistance available in a PP film in the marketplace today. Ideal for microwave applications or use in foodservice hot-hold cabinets, this film provides enhanced stiffness for downgauging opportunities. Pentafood® W-5129 film is available only in the Americas.

As with all Pentafood® PP films, Pentafood® W-5129 offers exceptional processability on conventional PP thermoforming machinery. This film can be sealed to a variety of standard lidding materials and is available in a variety of standard colors. Pentafood® W-5129 is compliant with all applicable FDA standards for direct food contact.

“Pentafood® W-5129 rigid PP films were developed to meet customers’ packaging requirements for a high heat resistant film suitable for food packaging applications,” notes Christopher Findley, Klöckner Pentaplast’s director of marketing for the Americas. “The expansion of our food packaging film range to include this high-heat resistant film, along with our existing Pentafood® mono and multi-layer films, continues to provide our customers with the broadest selection of films available in the global marketplace today.”
